

Case Study for Service Project

Case Study 1

Your club's signature project has supported a literacy program in your local school district for more than 10 years. You have identified a project in South Asia in which the local Rotary club is seeking resources to establish a computer training lab for teachers in a rural community. Your club doesn't have enough funds to support both projects.

What would you do?

How might your club seek additional funding to support a new service project?

Case Study 2

Your club has sponsored a local Rotaract club for many years. The Rotaractors are primarily university students, so there is regular turnover when they graduate. Each year, the enthusiastic Rotaractors identify a new service focus based on the interests of newer members. The projects are successful overall.

How can your club help maintain their success?

How can you keep the Rotaract club's alumni engaged with Rotary?
